Sailboat Bend Historic District Zoning Designation

0 250 500 1,000 Feet

SAILBOAT BEND HISTORIC DISTRICT

The Sailboat Bend District is located in the southwestern section of the city. It is the largest of the three districts and has over 550 buildings. It is the oldest neighborhood in the city and dates from the early 1900s until the 1950s. The majority of the houses are small one-story vernacular residences that add elements from Bungalow, Mission, or Mediterranean Revival style details. These were popular styles found in adjacent communities and throughout the United States. The inventory also includes some larger homes located along the New River. There are several Key Contributing sites associated with the growth of this community including the Swing Bridge, the West Side Fire Station and the West Side School. These three sites are also listed as local individual landmarks.
